

Hoang H. Drouin, DMD

Lake Norman Cosmetic and Restorative Dentistry

Restoring hope, restoring health, and restoring smiles.

“The strength of our practice is two-fold. We have the expertise for advanced cases, and we take the time to do it right,” says Dr. Drouin of Lake Norman Cosmetic and Restorative Dentistry, who was selected as a 2007 Top Dentist by his peers. “We’ve limited the number of new patients each month so I can give my best to each one.”

Hope

Dr. Drouin finds it rewarding to hear his patients say, “If I had known dentistry could be this pleasant, I would have come to you sooner.” He spends time with his patients to understand their needs, expectations, and potential fears; he explains every option for restoring their oral health. He also offers conscious sedation for his high-anxiety patients and has built a reputation for providing a gentle, nurturing environment.

Health

“We can restore patients back to excellent health while attending to their aesthetic and emotional needs,” Dr. Drouin says. The practice utilizes the latest in modern technology and techniques, and Dr. Drouin consistently strives to improve both his skill level and knowledge. While North Carolina dentists are required to annually complete 15 hours of continuing education, Dr. Drouin seeks a minimum of 50 hours each year. His advanced training in cosmetic dentistry and TMJ treatment places him in the national top five percent of dentists.

Smiles

“He’s a perfectionist and his patients see that,” says Chris Drouin, Dr. Drouin’s wife. “He often says that when you work in millimeters, you have to be a perfectionist to do a good job.”

Dr. Drouin has a professional mission to help those who are afraid and hurting and have stopped believing they can be helped: “We help patients realize they can have a healthy, beautiful smile and a comfortable, positive experience.”

“If I had known dentistry could be this pleasant, I would have come to you sooner.”
